AFP chief a no-show at Senate probe, cites EO 464

By Steve J. Rasmussen and John Loring Jenkins

THREE MONTHS after two police officers, including former head of the Philippine National Police (PNP) Gen. Antonio Rodriguez, were killed in a shooting incident, the AFP chief, Gen. Romeo B. Manzano, did not appear at a Senate probe into the incident. Manzano cited Executive Order 464, which prohibits police officers from being involved in political activities, as his reason for not attending.

The Senate Committee on Justice and Human Rights, led by Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile, is conducting an investigation into the shooting incident, which took place on Jan. 15 in a police station in Manila. The incident resulted in the deaths of two police officers and the wounding of several others.

Manzano's absence from the Senate hearing has drawn criticism from some lawmakers, who believe that he should have appeared to answer questions about the incident.

 (AP) Manila (AP) — A military intelligence agent was held in connection with the killing of a man in a police station in Manila.

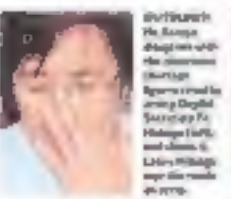

The man, identified as Sotero Llamas, was killed in a police station in Manila on Jan. 15. The police are investigating the killing and have arrested a man in connection with the incident.

Heritage disaster: Native craftsmen create icons not their own

By Christopher C. Myers
 MANILA (AP) — The Philippines is facing a crisis of its own making. Native craftsmen are creating icons that are not their own, and the government is not doing enough to protect them.

The crisis is the result of a long history of cultural appropriation. Native craftsmen have been creating icons for centuries, but the government has not been able to protect them from the influence of foreign companies.

The government has been accused of allowing foreign companies to create and sell icons that are identical to those created by native craftsmen. This has led to a loss of income for the native craftsmen and a loss of cultural heritage.

Gloria loses temper with DepEd head

By Christine L. Acordiano

WITH THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION (DepEd) head, Gloria Arroyo, losing her temper with the head of the Department of Education (DepEd) on Monday, the government is facing a crisis of its own making.

The crisis is the result of a long history of cultural appropriation. Native craftsmen have been creating icons for centuries, but the government has not been able to protect them from the influence of foreign companies.

VIP welcome for 1st Pinoys on Mt. Everest

By Mike Wynn

Two Filipino climbers, a man and a woman, were welcomed as the first Pinoys to reach the summit of Mount Everest. The man, identified as [Name], and the woman, identified as [Name], were both members of a climbing team that was led by a British climber.

The team spent several weeks preparing for the climb, and they faced many challenges along the way. However, they were successful in reaching the summit on Monday.

The climbers were welcomed by a large crowd of people at the base of the mountain. They were also given a special ceremony to honor their achievement.

Japanese firms to get taxes back

THE GOVERNMENT is looking to make a change in the way it taxes foreign firms in the Philippines. Under the new law, firms that invest in the country will be able to get back some of the taxes they pay.

The new law, which is part of a package of reforms, will allow firms to get back some of the taxes they pay on their investments. The law also allows firms to get back some of the taxes they pay on their investments in the Philippines.

As a result, the following are the main findings of the study:

The diagram illustrates the experimental setup for studying the effect of initial concentration on reaction rate. It shows a reaction vessel (a large container) with a stirrer (a vertical rod with a horizontal bar at the bottom). Reactants are added to the vessel from a beaker on the left. The reaction mixture is stirred, and the products are collected in a beaker on the right. The diagram is labeled with 'Reactants' and 'Products'.

Aeta people like leaves on water

By Jennifer Sison

IN A COUNTRY where the majority of the population is still poor, the Aeta people of the Cordillera region are still struggling to survive. They are the last of the indigenous people in the Philippines, and they are still living in the same way as their ancestors did. They are still using the same tools and techniques that their ancestors used, and they are still living in the same places. They are still the same people, but they are still struggling to survive.

Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the distribution of the number of children per family across different levels of education and income. The x-axis represents the number of children (0 to 10), the y-axis represents the number of families (0 to 100), and the z-axis represents the combination of education and income levels. The chart shows that higher education and income levels are associated with a higher number of children per family. The bars are color-coded by education level: Primary (light blue), Secondary (medium blue), and Tertiary (dark blue). The income levels are indicated by the height of the bars: Low (shortest), Medium (medium), and High (tallest).

Indon quake death toll soars past 5,400

By AP Staff
 A tsunami that struck the Indonesian island of Sumatra on Sunday killed at least 5,400 people, with the death toll rising as rescue workers found more bodies in the wreckage of homes and schools.

The tsunami, which hit the island at about 10:30 a.m. local time, was the deadliest natural disaster in the region since the 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami.

Rescue workers are still searching for survivors in the wreckage of homes and schools. The tsunami hit the island at about 10:30 a.m. local time, and the death toll is still rising.

Figure 1 consists of nine scatter plots arranged in a 3x3 grid. Each plot shows the relationship between the number of children (x-axis) and the number of children in the household (y-axis). The top row shows the relationship for the total number of children, the middle row for the number of children in the household, and the bottom row for the number of children in the household. The plots show a positive correlation between the number of children and the number of children in the household, with the correlation being stronger for the total number of children and the number of children in the household than for the number of children in the household.

Detailed description of Figure 6: This is a scatter plot with 'Number of Individuals' on the horizontal axis (0 to 100) and 'Number of Species' on the vertical axis (0 to 10). There are approximately 15 data points represented by open circles. A solid line starts at the origin and curves upwards, representing the expected species-area relationship. Two dashed lines parallel to the solid line form a confidence interval around it.

RP football: aim and kicking

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

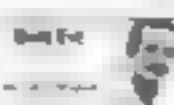

2. Next, it is important to gather relevant information and data. This can be done through research, consultation with experts, or by analyzing existing data sets.

3. Once the information is gathered, the next step is to develop a plan or strategy to address the problem. This plan should outline the steps to be taken and the resources needed.

4. The fourth step is to implement the plan. This involves carrying out the tasks outlined in the plan and monitoring progress as it goes.

5. Finally, it is important to evaluate the results of the process. This involves comparing the actual outcomes with the expected outcomes and identifying any areas for improvement.

Fifa suspensions: three soccer

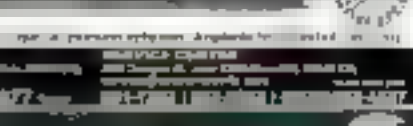

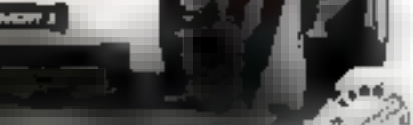

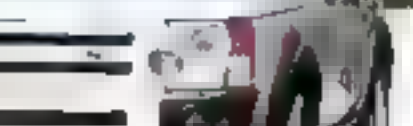

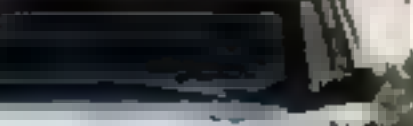

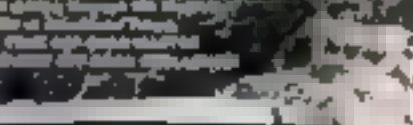

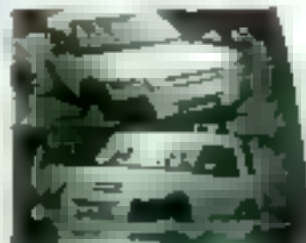

The International Football Federation (Fifa) has suspended three soccer players for failing to appear in court to face charges of sexual assault.

The players, who are from different countries, were suspended for a period of six months.

The suspension is a significant blow to the players' careers and the sport of soccer.

The players are expected to return to the sport after their suspension period ends.

The suspension is a warning to other players to follow the rules and regulations of the sport.

Lollipops, not cigarettes

GOOD HEALTH

BETTER MOUTH POWERS

THE WORLD IS PERFECTLY GOOD

COULD YOUR LIPS BE SAYING "GOODBYE" TO THE TOBACCO INDUSTRY? If you're a smoker, you know the answer is yes. But what if you could say "hello" to a healthier lifestyle? The answer is yes. And it's all thanks to a new line of lollipops that are as good for your taste buds as they are for your health.

The new line of lollipops, called "Lollipop", is made from natural fruit flavors and is completely tobacco-free. It's a perfect alternative to cigarettes that doesn't harm your taste buds or your health.

My Notes Never Looked This Good.

I have never found that "looking good" is so easy.

A good-looking person is not just someone who looks good. It's someone who is confident, who is happy, who is successful. And that's exactly what the Corona Notebooks can help you achieve. They're beautiful, they're functional, and they're perfect for anyone who wants to look good and feel good.
